GTU, Indus to set up centres in China

Chitra Unnathan & Bharat Yagnik | TNN

Ahmedabad: The Gujarat Technological University (GTU) and Electrotherm's Indus University will setup Centres of Excellence (CoE) in China.

The two universities will separately but in partnership with Indo-China Economic Council (ICEC) will sign a memorandum of understanding (MoU) with Sias International University, which is the first American University in China.

While the GTU will establish a Centre of Excellence for Engineering, Indus will establish a Centre of Excellence for Innovation at Sias University.

The education MoU will cover exchange study provision for two years each in Gujarat and China for students from both the universities.

Among other aspects, the

MoU proposes an exchange of faculty to teach Chinese language to students, joint research and meetings for education and research collaboration for the innovation centre, technical assistance and exchange of materials, documents and information.

GTU vice-chancellor A K Aggarwal said that the MoU will be signed in Gujarat. "We have spoken to the Chinese government. The centre of excellence will start from the next academic year. We will take this partnership further when the Chinese university visits again in February."

In the past, the GTU had sent its students to Canada, US and Germany for exchange.

Sias will lend space and professional support, including office space and services, technology infrastructure and business planning assistance. Sias will also assist the universities from Gujarat about policies related to start up funds, revenues, financial support and talent.
