UTRIP - University of Tokyo Research Internship Program has been launched by the Graduate School of Science (GSS) of the University of Tokyo (one of the world's leading research-education university) for promoting internationalization of GSS by inviting talented young students from abroad.

UTRIP is an intensive summer research program for undergraduates who have a keen interest in pursuing higher education. The participants will receive intensive instruction and guidance on conducting research from renowned faculty members belonging to the GSS's six departments of physics, astronomy, chemistry, earth & planetary science, biophysics & biochemistry, and biological sciences.

Applicants for UTRIP must:

- Be currently enrolled in a Bachelor's degree program at the time of application. However, at selection, the priority for nomination is given to applicants in their junior year of a four-year Bachelor's degree program. Senior or sophomore students are also encouraged to apply.
- Be enrolled in the natural science or other related fields.
- Be thinking of pursuing long-term career goals in a scientific area.
- Be available to carry out a research project for six consecutive weeks on a full-time basis.
- Be able to present coverage of a health insurance plan that is effective during the internship program before arriving in Japan.
- English proficiency: TOEFL or the equivalent English proficiency scores are required if you are not a native English speaker or if English is not your first language

Online Application consists of five forms: the forms for the basics of your personal profile, Resume/CV, Cover Letter, Academic Record, and Recommendation Letter.
